

Ms. Jessica Keating

Pro- Life Speaker

Jessica Keating directs the Notre Dame Office of Life and Human Dignity in the McGrath Institute for Church Life. In her role, she leads the Institute's research, education, and outreach efforts around life and human dignity issues, and coordinates the Institute's development of pro-life curriculum and resources.

Jessica originally hails from the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C. She holds undergraduate degrees from St. Joseph's University in Philosophy and Sociology. She taught high school theology for five years on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, after which she completed her Masters of Divinity from the University of Notre Dame in 2013. She has directed the Office of Life and Human Dignity since 2013, and in addition to her work with the Institute, she is pursuing her Ph.D. in Systematic Theology.

Jess' is a regular conference presenter and her writing has appeared in publications such as, America Magazine, Church Life Journal, and The Imaginative Conservative.

