RE: April - Child Abuse Prevention Month Toolkit

The Office for the Protection of Children & Vulnerable Adults (OPCVA) thanks you for your continued commitment to the safety and well-being of our children and most vulnerable amidst the COVID-19 outbreak, which has led to unparalleled shifts in our daily lives, from the way we live out our faith to social norms that we are all trying to comprehend and navigate. As we remain united together in prayer, we pray for the health and safety of you and your loved ones as the COVID-19 pandemic affects each of us directly and the world around us on a daily basis.

We also wanted to take this opportunity to share a sensitive reminder as it relates to our current reality. Research and experts alike warn that times of heightened stress and isolation can trigger abuse disclosures or lead to victim/survivors requiring more care and support. Furthermore, children are at a greater risk for abuse and neglect amid the COVID-19 pandemic due to the dangers of isolation, inadequate or non-existent childcare, and increased parental stress triggered by growing economic instability and housing insecurity, which will continue to be exasperated under current circumstances.

Now is the time to remain vigilant in order to protect our youth and so many vulnerable populations. The concerns noted above underscore the need to be able to recognize abuse, especially in our parish and school communities, as well as the ability to report instances or suspicions of abuse to both the diocese and civil authorities. Services critical to children's safety, and victim/survivor's well-being must continue to be made available despite the outbreak, and we all play a crucial role in this effort in our local communities.

In recognizing the power of prevention, we are reminded that the healing journey for child sexual abuse victim/survivors, and their families, is a long and arduous one. The abuse of our most vulnerable is contrary to our faith in Jesus Christ, and to the teachings of the Church. Each of us, as members of our Catholic community, can contribute to their healing by remembering all those impacted by childhood sexual abuse in our prayers.

As we look towards April and the blessing of Easter, we remind you that April is also National Child Abuse Prevention Month. This is a vital and meaningful time to highlight the importance of youth protection. Let us join in unity as brothers and sisters in Christ by showing our support for protecting God’s children, through our recognition of Child Abuse Prevention Month within our local parish and school communities. To assist you in this effort, we have developed an online toolkit to promote child abuse prevention resources for use by parishes, teachers, and caring individuals or families:

Child Abuse Prevention Website: https://www.dsj.org/april-is-child-abuse-prevention-month/
The Catholic Church has long embraced this nationally recognized movement as a time to uplift the importance of protecting children from abuse and to raise awareness that child abuse is preventable, as we reaffirm our work to help make great childhoods happen locally and nationwide. While dioceses work year-round to prevent abuse, during the month of April, a special emphasis is placed on the importance of learning how to protect all children from the evils of abuse.

For your convenience, a copy of some of the resources available on our Child Abuse Prevention website are available to you in this memorandum. These resources include:

Pinwheels for Prevention: In 2008, Prevent Child Abuse America introduced the pinwheel as the new national symbol for child abuse prevention. Show your support for our nation’s children and help get your children involved in the movement by making your own pinwheel display! You can go all out and create a Pinwheel Event, which can be anything to bring a solemn reminder of child abuse prevention efforts, such as a prayer service, or the planting of a Pinwheel Garden. Create a “blue ribbon tree” at your parish or school, encouraging children and adults to tie a blue ribbon around a specific tree (the trunk and the branches) in honor of child abuse prevention. You could also have each person say a prayer for those who have been abused as they tie on their ribbon.

Rosary for Healing and Protection

You can help in these efforts by offering your prayers for healing and protection. This rosary will help you to lift up their needs in prayer, offering them to God through Mary who offers her loving protection to all her children.

Schedule a time throughout the month of April to say a Rosary in support of victims/survivors of abuse through prayer:

- Rosary for Healing and Protection - Printable Booklet (Spanish)

The following is an example of a reflection from the Rosary’s Sorrowful Mystery, the Agony in the Garden:

“Many victims of child sexual abuse suffer in silence for years, wrestling alone with the agony of their memories and pain. We pray that the Church may always be a place where they can come to share their stories, be received in love and compassion, and be supported on the path to healing.”

APRIL Is Child Abuse Prevention Month

Every April, Catholic parishes and schools across the United States participate in National Child Abuse Prevention Month.

The Effects of ABUSE

When a child is abused, the effects are grave and can last a lifetime. Some of the most common effects of abuse include:

- Loss of faith and trust in God.
- Post-traumatic stress disorder, psychological distress, and other indirect signs of trauma, such as anxiety, trouble sleeping, chronic stomach pain, and headaches.
- A greater risk of developing behavioral problems, substance abuse, and suicide.

The sense of violation goes deep into a person’s psyche and feelings of anger, shame, hurt, and betrayal can build long after the abuse has taken place.

Steps to Prevent ABUSE

Communicate with Your Children

It is extremely important to communicate openly with your children. Let them know that they can talk to you about anything that bothers them. This will help you identify warning signs and grooming behaviors perpetrated by offenders before they escalate to abuse.

Educate Yourself and Your Children on Abuse

Learning how to identify, prevent, and report abuse is key. Parents and guardians should empower their children to protect themselves from harm and to report abuse. Ask your diocesan safe environment coordinator or parish delegate about opportunities for safe environment training.

Identify and Report Warning Signs of Child Abusers

Grooming behaviors are the actions abusers take to project the image that they are kind, generous, caring people, while their intent is to lure a minor into an inappropriate relationship. Offenders can be patient and may groom their victim, his or her family, or community for years.

Some abusers isolate a potential victim by giving him or her undue attention or lavish gifts, while others allow young people to participate in activities which their parents or guardians would not approve, such as watching pornography, drinking alcohol, using drugs, and excessive touching, such as wrestling and tickling. Abusers also often try to isolate their victims from family or friends and encourage their victims to keep secrets from their parents or other caring adults.

Holding Offenders ACCOUNTABLE

To help hold offenders accountable, report all suspected abuse to local public authorities. You can also contact your local diocesan victim assistance coordinator to make a report and seek outreach for the abused.

In accordance with diocesan policy, when a single act of sexual abuse is admitted or established, the offender is to be removed permanently from ministry.

“Let it be clear that before these abominations the Church will spare no effort to do all that is necessary to bring to justice whosoever has committed such crimes . . . To those who abuse minors I would say this: convert and hand yourself over to human justice, and prepare for divine justice.”

—Pope Francis, Dec. 21, 2018
Ten Tips for Protecting Children and Offering Outreach to Victims/Survivors

1. Sexual abuse is about the victim.
   Many people are affected by abuse but the individual most impacted is the victim who has suffered a violation of trust that can affect his or her entire life.

2. The residual effects of having been abused can last a lifetime.
   The sense of violation goes deep into a person’s psyche and feelings of anger, shame, hurt and betrayal can build long after the abuse has taken place. Those who have been abused can heal, but if often takes time, therapy, and the support of loved ones.

3. No one has the right to have access to children.
   No one, no matter who they are, has an automatic right to be around children or young people who are in the care of the Church without proper screening and without following the rules.

4. Common sense is not all that common.
   Dioceses, schools, parishes, and especially families, must educate themselves and others on how to protect children.

5. Child sexual abuse can be prevented.
   It is critical to build safety barriers around children and young people to keep them from harm—such as protective guardians, codes of conduct, background evaluations, policies and procedures, and safety training programs.

6. Feeling heard leads toward healing.
   Relief from hurt and anger often comes when one feels heard, when one’s pain and concerns are taken seriously, and a victim/survivor’s suffering, pain, and anger are acknowledged.

7. You cannot always predict who will be an abuser.
   Experience shows that most abuse is committed by someone who has gained the trust of a victim/survivor and his/her family.

8. There are behavioral warning signs of child abusers.
   Some abusers isolate a potential victim by giving him or her undue attention or lavish gifts, others allow young people to participate in activities which their parents or guardians would not approve, such as watching pornography, drinking alcohol, using drugs, and excessive touching, such as wrestling and tickling.

9. People can be taught to identify grooming behavior.
   Grooming behaviors are the actions which abusers take to project the image that they are kind, generous, caring people, while their intent is to lure a minor into an inappropriate relationship. Offenders can be patient and may groom their victim, his or her family, or community for years.

10. Background checks are important.
    Background checks in churches, schools and other organizations keep predators away from children both because they scare off some predators and because they uncover past actions which should ban an adult from working or volunteering with children.

Reporting Abuse & Sexual Misconduct

Anyone who has reason to believe or suspects that a child has been or is being abused should report their suspicions to civil authorities and then to the diocese’s Office for the Protection of Children & Vulnerable Adults (OPCVA) at 408-983-0113. Parish and school personnel, including clergy, are “Mandated Reporters” and are required by state law to report abuse, even a reasonable suspicion of abuse, to civil authorities (Law Enforcement or Child Protective Services).

If an adult victim/survivor is looking to report a case of Clergy Abuse, we encourage them to:
1. First contact their local civil authorities (Law Enforcement)
2. Once a report is filed with the local civil authorities, individuals are encouraged to contact the diocese’s Office for the Protection of Children & Vulnerable Adults at 408-983-0113.
